FIGHTING OVER FISH. Frenchmen Show Their Hatred for

the English-Vessels Wrecked. [SPECIAL TO THE WOLLD.] HALIVAN, N. S., May 22. -Bitter feeling xists between the English and French tishermen on the Newfoundland coast. When the fishing schooner Advance. which has arrived at Bonavista, collided with an unknown French fisherman and lost bowsprit, jibboom, cutwater and everything forward, the Frenchmen did not offer assistance, but on the contrary violently abused the crew of the Advance and flung

A French fishing vessel named Marie put into Port au Basques and carried away the nets of a Newfoundlander. The owner sought redress from the captain, Bischell, and narrowly escaped being thrown overboard. Legal proceedings were taken against the Frenchman. Judgment went by default. A policeman was sent on board the Marie to arrest Capt, Bischell. The Marie was under way at the time and proceeded to sea with the Newfoundland policeman on

The people of Port an Basques are afraid the French crew will throw the policeman overboard when the vessel gets out to see overboard when the vessel gets out to sea and have telegraphed the facts to the Government and the Captain of the French war ship Indre.

Imminent danger of serious trouble between the Frenchmen and Englishmen exists, and Sir William Whiteway, the Promier, will proceed to London next week to consult with the Imperial sutheraties.

The British Government retuses to assect to the Newfoundland law prohibiting the use of cod-traps unless the French shore district a excluded from the act.

The fishing brig Louis, from Granville, France, for St. Pierre, dashed upon the necks at Lawn Point and then sank. All the crew were mowhed. The mastheads are just above waler. This crew are supposed to have taken to the masts and been washed off, as some clothing was found fastened to the masthead by a many hold.

The Newfoundland schooner Margaret M. Fan ashore at Little Lorraine, C. B., in a dense fog vesterday said is a total wreck.
